THE NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP TEAMS

1964

The 1963-64 season marked the beginning of UCLA's domination of collegiate basketball. Until that season, the Bruins had been just another fine team but it all changed that year.

John Wooden, in his 16th season as coach of the Bruins, put together an experienced team blessed with great quickness and installed the zone press which would carry his team to the top of the collegiate world. Employing Gail Goodrich and Fred Slaughter under the basket, Walt Hazzard and Jack Hirsch behind them and Keith Erickson as the safety, the press destroyed opposing offenses all season.

The results were a perfect 30-0 record and an NCAA championship, the first of 10 in a 12-year span for the Bruins. Senior Walt Hazzard, perhaps the top playmaker in UCLA history, was selected the NCAA "Player of the Year" although he did not lead the Bruins in scoring. That honor went to Gail Goodrich, who averaged 21.5 points a game to Hazzard's 18.6.

Hirsch and Erickson, the two forwards, averaged 14.0 and 10.7 points respectively, while center Fred Slaughter averaged 7.9. Top reserves included forward Kenny Washington and center Doug McIntosh.

That year was symbolized by the "Bruin Blitz." There was no better illustration than in the NCAA championship game against Duke. With 7:14 remaining in the first half, the Bruins trailed 30-27. In the next 2:40, the Bruins outscored Duke, 16-0, to pull into a 43-30 lead.

The Bruins went on to win, 98-83, to start the dynasty on its way.

The Bruins were not highly thought of prior to the season, but once the year began, they started moving up the polls. In early January the Bruins pushed past Kentucky and into the No. 1 spot for the first time in history.

It was a position they would hold for many years.

Although the Bruins lost 110-83 to Illinois in the first game of the season, they defeated Michigan 91-80 in the NCAA Final to win their second straight national championship. The UCLA dynasty had begun.

Coach John Wooden had only two returning starters from 1963-64, but he had the right players to fit the championship puzzle. Once again utilizing the devastating zone press, the Bruins compiled a perfect conference record and captured the NCAA title with a 28-2 mark.

The leader of this championship unit was senior guard Gail Goodrich, who assumed the job of playmaker and scorer. The 6-0 guard led the Bruins to the title by averaging 24.6 points per game, a UCLA school record for guards. He finished his career as the Bruins' all-time leading scorer.

Three other Bruins averaged in double figures. They were senior co-captain Keith Erickson (12.9), the key No. 5 man in the zone press, junior Fred Goss (12.2) and sophomore Edgar Lacey (11.6). Doug McIntosh took over the starting center spot while Kenny Washington and Mike Lynn gave the Bruins superior bench strength all year long.

Utilizing the talents of these young men to perfection, Wooden molded the Bruins into another outstanding unit. They hit top form for the NCAA Tournament, averaging an even 100 points for the four games. Goodrich, at his best in the big games, set a school record by scoring 42 points in the title game as the Bruins bested Michigan, 91-80, to win the school's second straight NCAA championship.

Four sophomores and a junior returned for the 1966-67 season to defend the title won the previous year. One of those sophomores was Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar), perhaps the most dominating force in collegiate basketball history. The junior was guard Mike Warren, one of the smoothest play-making guards ever to play at UCLA. They were joined in the starting lineup by sophomores Lucius Allen, the scoring guard, Lynn Shackelford, the sweet-shooting forward, and Kenny Heitz, a defensive whiz.

Coach John Wooden, in another great coaching job, molded this unit into one of the finest teams in history. Warren and the four sophomores, along with reserves Bill Sweek and Jim Nielsen, banded together to win 30 straight games without a loss and capture the school's third NCAA championship in four years.

Alcindor showed the world what to expect for the next three years in his very first game. Scoring with a variety of short range shots and slam dunks, the sophomore set a school record with 56 points, a record he broke later that season when he tallied 61 against Washington State.

The only thing that slowed the Bruins down was a delay game and the closest any opponent came to the Bruins was five points. In NCAA playoff competition, the Bruins outscored four opponents by 95 points, defeating Houston in the semi-finals and Dayton in the finals to claim the championship.

Alcindor led the way by averaging 29.0 points and setting an NCAA record by hitting 66.7 per cent of his field goal attempts. Allen and Warren averaged 15.5 and 12.7 points, respectively, while Shackelford tossed in 11.4 points per contest, mostly from long range.

The dynasty was now firmly established.

Lew Alcindor, Mike Warren, Lucius Allen, Lynn Shackelford and Kenny Heitz were all a year older and more experienced in 1967-68. In addition, Mike Lynn and Edgar Lacey, both starters during the 1965-66 season, returned to the varsity after missing the championship year. So it figured the Bruins would cruise through every game. Right?

Wrong! UCLA opened defense of its national title at Purdue and barely escaped with a 73-71 victory. The near-defeat shocked the Bruins, who won their next 12 games (11 by 24 or more points) to run their winning streak to 47.

The streak ended at the Houston Astrodome as a record 52,693 fans watched the Houston Cougars upset the Bruins, 71-69. Alcindor, who had an injured eye, did not play at full strength, and the Cougars exploited that weakness.

The Bruins completed the regular season with a 25-1 record and a No.2 national ranking (behind Houston). Only one Pac-8 foe came within eight points of the Bruins, who set a school record by averaging 93.4 points per game for the season. In the regionals, UCLA defeated New Mexico State and Santa Clara to advance to the semifinals against Houston.

The rematch at the Los Angeles Sports Arena was no contest. Alcindor, Allen and Lynn scored 19 points each and the Bruins, playing a diamond-and-one defense against Elvin Hayes and the Cougars (Shackelford was the one), roared to a 53-31 halftime lead and a 101-69 triumph. The next day, the Bruins earned their fourth NCAA title in five years with a 78-55 win against North Carolina.

Alcindor, despite the elimination of the dunk shot, led UCLA's attack with a 26.2 average, followed by Allen (15.1), Warren (12.1), Shackelford (10.7) and Lynn (10.3).

The Bruins entered the 1968-69 season with no experienced guards to get the ball to Lew Alcindor, Lynn Shackelford and sophomore forwards Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks.

Coach John Wooden solved the problem by filling one guard spot with junior college transfer John Vallely, who was to become known as the "Money Man" for his play in big games. The other backcourt spot was filled by Kenny Heitz.

Although the scores were closer, the Bruins still won their first 23 games without much of a scare. But the next two, an overtime victory at California and a double overtime win at USC, were omens of things to come. The night after the double-overtime victory, USC upset the Bruins, 46-44, in Pauley Pavilion. It was UCLA's first Pauley Pavilion loss and only the second of the Alcindor Era.

The Bruins advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the third straight year. The regionals were held in Pauley and UCLA defeated New Mexico State and Santa Clara to advance to the Final Four.

The Bruins almost had their winning streak ended by Drake in the semi-finals, but prevailed 85-82, thanks to the "Money Man's" 29 points and 25 by Alcindor. The following afternoon, the Bruins became the first team in NCAA history to win three straight titles with a 92-72 drubbing of Purdue. Alcindor, playing his final collegiate game, scored 37 points while UCLA, principally Heitz, held high-scoring Rick Mount in check.

Alcindor, who established UCLA career scoring and rebounding records and led the Bruins to an 88-2 record, averaged 24.0 points, followed by Rowe (12.9), Vallely (11.0), Wicks (7.5) and Heitz (7.0).

Big Lew was now in the NBA and the collegiate basketball world breathed easier. Although starters John Vallely and Curtis Rowe were returning from the 1969 NCAA title team, most figured UCLA would not be a factor in the championship picture. Needless to say, they were wrong.

Junior Sidney Wicks, moving in at the vacated forward position, became the team's leading scorer and rebounder with averages of 18.6 and 11.9, respectively. He was joined on the front line by Rowe (15.3 and 8.7) and center Steve Patterson (12.5 and 10.0). Together, the three juniors became an extremely physical front line, helping the Bruins win many games by keeping the ball alive on the backboard until somebody put it in the basket.

Those somebodies were usually Vallely and sophomore guard Henry Bibby. Vallely provided senior leadership in the backcourt in addition to his 16.3 points per game. Sophomore Bibby, the fifth starter, had one of the best years ever for a Bruin guard, averaging 15.6 points while shooting .501 from the floor and .833 from the line.

This unit averaged 92 points a game and set a school scoring record of 133 points against LSU and Pete Maravich. Although the Bruins lost twice during the regular season, they won their fourth straight Pac-8 title and served notice that they would fight to retain their title.

That fight reached the title game against Jacksonville, led by 7-2 center Artis Gilmore and guard Rex Morgan, dubbed "Batman and Robin" by the media. The Dolphins led by nine at one point in the first half. By halftime, UCLA had a five-point lead and Wicks had blocked five of Gilmore's shots. Rowe scored 19 points and Wicks and Patterson contributed 17 each, and the Bruins won their fourth straight NCAA title with an 80-69 victory.

Coach John Wooden had his entire front line of Sidney Wicks, Curtis Rowe and Steve Patterson returning for their senior seasons. Their contributions became more and more important throughout the year because the Bruins did not get the quality guard play they had received in their previous championship seasons.

Wicks once again was the team's leading scorer and rebounder with averages of 21.3 and 12.7, respectively. When the Bruins were in trouble, they went to Wicks and he usually found a way to pull them through, like against Oregon State when he dribbled the clock to the last few seconds and hit a jumper for a two-point victory.

Rowe and Patterson averaged 17.5 and 12.9 points, respectively, and grabbed over 290 rebounds each. Patterson, often overlooked, saved his best for last, scoring 29 points in the 68-62 victory over Villanova in the NCAA title game. Henry Bibby, taking over the backcourt playmaking chores of John Vallely, still averaged 11.8 points and scored 17 in the title game. Senior Kenny Booker (5.5) started opposite Bibby and senior Terry Schofield (6.2) proved to be a valuable sixth man.

Although they played a number of close games, the Bruins lost just once, an 89-82 decision at Notre Dame. It would be UCLA's last loss for three years, but there were other close calls. The Bruins trailed USC by nine points with nine minutes remaining at the Sports Arena but rallied for a 64-60 victory. In the NCAA West Regionals, the Bruins rallied from an 11-point deficit to defeat Cal State Long Beach, 57-55, and earn another trip to the Final Four. In all, the Bruins won seven games by five or less points enroute to a 29-1 record and their fifth straight NCAA title.

In 1971-72, senior guard Henry Bibby was the only returning starter and junior Larry Farmer, a top reserve the previous season, took over one of the vacated forward positions and averaged 10.7 points and 5.5 rebounds.

But the big story of 1971-72 was the three sophomores. They were led by 6-11 center Bill Walton, who would establish himself as one of the greatest players in collegiate basketball history. The redhead led the Bruins in scoring with a 21.1 average and tied Lew Alcindor's school record by grabbing 466 rebounds.

The other two sophomores were Keith (now Jamaal) Wilkes and Greg Lee. Wilkes, a smooth forward, averaged 13.5 points, second only to Walton and Bibby (15.7), and averaged over eight rebounds per game. Lee assumed the duties of point guard and averaged 8.7 points while running UCLA's devastating fast break.

The five starters also received plenty of help from Larry Hollyfield and Tommy Curtis, who averaged 7.3 and 4.1 points. Swen Nater, perhaps the only NBA first round draft choice to never start a collegiate game, also contributed off the bench and averaged 6.7 points.

The Walton Gang started the season by scoring over 100 points in seven straight games. Prior to the NCAA championship contest against Florida State, only one team had closed to within six points of the Bruins. With Walton scoring 24 points and Wilkes adding 23, the Bruins defeated FSU, 81-76, to claim their sixth straight title.

UCLA thus became the first school ever to fashion three perfect 30-0 seasons. The Bruins also set an NCAA record that still stands by outscoring opponents by 30.3 points per game.

In 1972-73 only guard Henry Bibby had departed and senior Larry Hollyfield (10.7), did a fine job filling his position. The rest of the cast remained the same with Bill Walton (20.4) at center. Keith Wilkes (14.8) and Larry Farmer (12.2) at forward and Greg Lee (4.6) at guard. Tommy Curtis (6.4), Dave Meyers (4.9), Swen Nater (3.2), and Pete Trgovich (3.1) gave the Bruins an outstanding reserve contingent.

Together, these nine players set numerous records. On Jan. 25, the Bruins defeated Loyola (Chicago) 87-73, for their 60th straight victory, tying USF's NCAA record. Two days later, they set a new record when they beat Notre Dame, 82-63, on the Irish home court. By the end of the year, the streak had reached 75.

The Bruins suffered very few close calls during the regular season, winning every game by at least six points and 23 of the 26 by 10 or more. In the NCAA West Regional finals the Bruins faced a determined USF team that slowed the ball down and trailed by just one point, 23-22, at halftime. In the end, UCLA triumphed, 54-39.

In the NCAA semifinals, the Indiana Hoosiers gave the Bruins a scare with a furious second-half rally. But Curtis came off the bench to score 22 points and the Bruins reached the title game with a 70-50 victory.

Walton, who set a school record with 506 rebounds, set an NCAA record in the title game, by making 21 of 22 shots, and scoring 44 points, to lead the Bruins to an 87-66 victory over Memphis State. The Bruins won their seventh straight NCAA title and became the only school to compile consecutive undefeated seasons.

Senior David Meyers was the lone returning starter from the 1974 team which finished third nationally. He assumed the leadership role and became famous for his aggressive play and hustle. Sophomores Richard Washington (15.9) and Marques Johnson (11.6) joined Meyers (18.3) on the front line and they were supported by junior Ralph Drollinger (8.8) at center.

In the backcourt, coach John Wooden had little experience. Pete Trgovich (10.2), who had started early in the previous year, moved in at one guard spot while junior Andre McCarter (7.0) assumed the playmaking role and led the team with 156 assists.

The Bruins opened the season by winning their first 12 games before being upset at Stanford. There were two more losses along and numerous other close games, but at regular season's end, the Bruins had captured another Pac-8 title and were looking to reclaim the NCAA title.

The Bruins won their first playoff game in overtime and their second by just three points. They won the West Regional title behind Johnson's 35-point effort in an 89-75 victory over Arizona State.

In the national semifinals, the Bruins defeated Louisville in overtime, 75-74, behind Washington's 26 points. Following the game, Wooden announced his retirement.

That meant his great career would end against Kentucky in the NCAA title game. Only six Bruins played against the Wildcats, but they combined for a 92-85 victory. Washington tossed in 28 points, Meyers added 24 and Drollinger came off the bench to grab 13 rebounds. John Wooden's last career victory accounted for UCLA's 10th NCAA title in 12 years, a record that will never be matched.

It had been 20 years since UCLA won its last NCAA title and 15 seasons since the Bruins were in a Final Four. But UCLA, behind the talented senior trio of Ed O'Bannon, Tyus Edney and George Zidek, put it all together to beat defending NCAA champion Arkansas 89-78 for the national championship. The Bruins established a single season record for most wins (32 victories, against just one loss) and ended the year with a nation-leading 19 straight wins.

O'Bannon led the way in the NCAA title game against Arkansas, getting 30 points and 17 rebounds. For that effort, he was named the Final Four's Most Outstanding Player. O'Bannon was showered with accolades following his senior season—Player of the Year honors from the John R. Wooden Award, Chevrolet/CBS, USBWA and Basketball Weekly and Pacific-10 co-Player of the Year. For the season, he led the Bruins in scoring (20.4), rebounding (8.3) and three-point field goal (43.3) and free throw percentage (78.5).

Edney, who was brilliant during the NCAA Tournament—he was named the Most Outstanding Player in the West Regional and his last second full-court dash against Missouri in the second round propelled the Bruins into the Sweet 16—was unable to play much against Arkansas in the championship contest. He suffered a severe sprained right wrist against Oklahoma State in the semifinals, and played less than three minutes against the Razorbacks. Sophomore Cameron Dollar filled in admirably for Edney in the championship game and scored six points. Edney was second on the team in scoring (14.3) and led the Bruins in assists (6.8) and steals (2.3). He was honored with the Frances Pomeroy Naismith Award, given annually to the nation's best player under six-feet tall.

Zidek, a season-long stalwart on the court and in the classroom, saved his best performances for the Final Four. He was able to contain Oklahoma State's Bryant Reeves in UCLA's semifinal victory over the Cowboys and held Corliss Williamson, the 1994 NCAA Final Four Most Outstanding Player, in check during UCLA's championship win over Arkansas. Zidek, who averaged 10.6 points and 5.4 rebounds, while shooting 55.3 from the field and 73.1 from the foul line, was a first-team GTE Academic All-American, he had a 3.76 gpa in economics. He also earned a Pacific-10 Medal, based on the exhibition of the greatest combination of performance and achievement in scholarship, athletics and leadership.

Also helping lead the Bruins to the NCAA title were four underclassmen—sophomore Charles O'Bannon, who started every game in the 1994-95 campaign, and during the Tournament averaged in double offensive figures (11.5) and was UCLA's second-leading rebounder (5.2); Dollar, who played in every game, and in the NCAA title game, stepped into the point guard role and played a then career-high 36 minutes and dished out eight assists; true freshman Toby Bailey, who erupted for a career-high 26 points in the NCAA championship game and in the West Region final vs. Connecticut, and who earned All-Tournament honors at both the Final Four and West Regionals; and true freshman J. R. Henderson, whose consistent play throughout the regular season and the post-season earned him Pac-10 All-Freshman first-team.

Head Coach Jim Harrick, who was named the 1995 Naismith and NABC National Coach of the Year and the Pac-10 Coach of the Year, was assisted by Mark Gottfried, Lorenzo Romar, Steve Lavin and David Boyle.

THE NIT CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

The 1984-85 season began slowly for new head coach Walt Hazzard and his Bruins. Playing a tough early-season schedule, the Bruins won just three of their first nine games, losing at DePaul, Memphis State, Brigham Young and St. John's.

Shortly after the first of the year, the Bruins began to turn things around. A double-overtime victory over Oregon began a stretch of seven games during which the Bruins won six times, moving into first place in the Pacific-10 Conference with a 6-2 record. A one-point, double-overtime defeat to USC started a four-game losing streak that dropped UCLA's overall record to 9-11.

Then the Bruins caught fire, winning four straight games, including a 75-65 victory over Louisville, before suffering a disappointing two-point, four-overtime loss to USC in Pauley Pavilion. That was the last loss of the Bruins' season. They were later selected to play in the NIT.

Montana and Nebraska were UCLA's first two victims, setting up a contest against Fresno State with the winner advancing to the Final Four. Thanks to a stifling defense, the Bruins defeated the Bulldogs, 53-43, and four days later, faced Louisville in the semifinals in Madison Square Garden. Brad Wright's career-high 23 points powered the Bruins past the Cardinals (75-66) and into the title game against Indiana. scored 18 points each to lead the Bruins to their first ever NIT championship, 65-62.

Overall, the Bruins won their final eight games to finish with a record of 21-12. Miller (15.2) and senior Gary Maloncon (8.9) were the starting forwards, senior Wright (10.5 points and 8.7 rebounds) was the center while senior Miguel (12.0) and sophomore Montel Hatcher (8.4) completed the starting lineup.

On Dec. 20, 2003, the basketball floor in Pauley Pavilion was named after legendary Bruin head coach John Wooden and his late wife Nell - "Nell and John Wooden Court". More than 60 of Coach Wooden's players attended to honor the coach and his wife.

JOHN WOODEN — BASKETBALL'S FINEST COACH

UCLA's basketball program has the international reputation of being No. 1. There is a major reason for that — his name is John Robert Wooden, who announced his retirement after the 1974-75 season (his 27th campaign) as the Bruins' head coach with the winningest record in all of the sport's history. Wooden celebrated his 95th birthday on Oct. 14, 2005.

Wooden concluded his 40 years as a head coach that season and his 885-203 overall career win-loss record (a percentage of .813) is unequaled. A large part of that success was at UCLA. In 27 years as Bruin coach, his teams registered 620 wins, and only 147 losses while earning far more national honors than any other university.

Under Wooden, UCLA won an unprecedented 10 NCAA championships, including seven consecutive (1966-73). Included in the string is one of the most amazing win streaks in all of sports, 38 straight NCAA tournament victories.

In addition, there is the all-time NCAA consecutive winning-streak record of 88 games over four seasons, which included consecutive 30-0 seasons in 1971-72 and 1972-73. UCLA also won 149 of 151 games in Pauley Pavilion during his Bruin tenure.

John Wooden is the only coach to compile four undefeated seasons of 30-0 and his Bruin teams captured 19 conference championships (the record of which Wooden is most proud).

Coach Wooden is the first person to be inducted into the National Basketball Hall of Fame as both a player and coach.

Complimenting the honors listed elsewhere in his biography, Wooden also has received two others he is especially proud of: being named the 1969 "Outstanding Basketball Coach of the U.S." by his denomination, the Christian Church, for his services to collegiate basketball and the community. The other is having his hometown of Martinsville, Indiana, naming a street after him and at the same time serving as the 1969 King of the famed Morgan County Fall Foliage Festival and Grand Marshal of the Festival Parade. Their high school gymnasium also bears his name.

Born in Martinsville, IN on Oct. 14, 1910, Wooden attended high school there and won all-state prep honors in basketball three consecutive years, leading Martinsville High to the Indiana State title in 1927 and runner-up in 1926 and 1928.

At Purdue University, he won letters in basketball and baseball his freshman year and later earned All-American honors as a guard on the basketball team from 1930-32. He captained Purdue's basketball teams of 1931 and 1932 and led the Boilermakers to two Big Ten titles and the 1932 national championship.

Wooden's name was inscribed on Purdue's academic honor roll and he was awarded the 1932 Big Ten Conference medal for outstanding merit and proficiency in scholarship and athletics.

Shortly after graduating from Purdue in 1932, he married his charming wife, Nell. He then began his teaching career at Dayton High School in Kentucky where he coached numerous sports. After two years, he returned to the state of Indiana where he coached basketball, baseball and tennis at South Bend Central High School and taught English for nine years. His impressive 11-year prep coaching record was 218-42.

World War II interrupted his coaching career as he served as a full lieutenant in the U.S. Navy from 1943-46. Following his discharge in 1946, he went to Indiana Teachers College (now Indiana State University) as athletic director, basketball and baseball coach for two seasons prior to moving to UCLA.

Wooden and his wife, Nell, who died in Los Angeles on March 21, 1985, were married for 53 years. Parents of a son, James Hugh, and a daughter, Nancy Anne, John has seven grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. On Dec. 20, 2003, the basketball floor in Pauley Pavilion was dedicated "Nell and John Wooden Court."
