

THE NBA DRAFT

UCLA has produced 33 first-round NBA draft selections. Since the draft's inception (1947), UCLA stands as the all-time leader in draft picks with 108, ahead of Kentucky (102), North Carolina (100) and Duke (77).

UCLA's most consistent scoring threat as a junior in 2006-07, Arron Afflalo was selected by the Detroit Pistons in the first round of the 2007 NBA Draft.

Selected fourth overall in the 2008 NBA Draft, Russell Westbrook (above) was UCLA's highest draft selection since Baron Davis (below) in 1999.

Since 1997, UCLA has seen 22 of its players selected in the NBA Draft, including during 13 consecutive seasons (from 1997 through 2009). Baron Davis (far left) was the third overall selection by the Charlotte Hornets in 1999. In the NBA, Davis has averaged 16.5 points per game and 7.3 assists per game in his 12-year professional career.

Russell Westbrook and Kevin Love (right) were chosen back-to-back as the fourth and fifth overall draft picks, respectively in 2008. That season, Westbrook and Love helped lead UCLA to its third consecutive NCAA Final Four appearance.

NBA DRAFT 2009

Darren Collison (above, right) was taken in the first round, 21st overall, of the 2009 NBA Draft by the New Orleans Hornets. Collison was UCLA's fourth first-round draft selection in two seasons.

UCLA BRUINS IN THE NBA

UCLA has sent 78 players and counting to the NBA. Last season, 14 former UCLA basketball players competed in the NBA. Russell Westbrook led all Bruins in scoring average during the 2010-11 season, averaging 21.9 points per game. Westbrook helped Oklahoma City advance to the Western Conference Finals. Kevin Love recorded 53 consecutive double-doubles in 2010-11 with the Minnesota Timberwolves, finishing the season 20.9 points per game. Love led the NBA with 15.2 rebounds per game in his third professional season. Nine Bruins who played under head coach Ben Howland spent the 2010-11 season in the NBA. Baron Davis completed his 12th year in the NBA, registering 13.1 ppg and 6.7 apg. Arron Afflalo shined with the Denver Nuggets, leading the team in three-point field goal percentage (42.3) and ranking eighth in the NBA in that category.

(top row, left to right) — Dan Gadzuric played for the Golden State Warriors and New Jersey Nets, averaging 11 minute per game in his ninth NBA season. Darren Collison averaged 13.2 ppg in his first season with the Indiana Pacers (second season in the NBA). Matt Barnes averaged 6.7 ppg in 53 contests for the Los Angeles Lakers. Arron Afflalo registered a career high 12.6 ppg for the Denver Nuggets, shooting at a 42.3 percent clip from three-point range. Kevin Love earned his first NBA All-Star Game selection, averaging 20.2 ppg and 15.2 rpg with the Minnesota Timberwolves. Ryan Hollins played in 70 games for the Cleveland Cavaliers during his fifth season in the NBA, averaging 5.3 ppg and 2.7 rpg.

(bottom row, left to right) – Earl Watson finished his 10th season in the NBA, playing in 80 games for the Utah Jazz. Watson averaged 4.3 ppg and 3.5 apg, shooting at a 33.6 percent clip from three-point range. Don MacLean enjoyed an eight-year NBA career after having excelled for the Bruins from 1989-92. Baron Davis has played 12 NBA seasons, more than any former Bruin currently in the NBA. Davis played for the Los Angeles Clippers and Cleveland Cavaliers in 2010-11, averaging 13.1 ppg and 2.7 rpg between both clubs. Pooh Richardson spent 10 seasons in the NBA, including the final five with the Los Angeles Clippers. Russell Westbrook (middle of page) enjoyed his third NBA season playing for the Oklahoma City Thunder, averaging 21.9 ppg and 8.2 apg.

(top row, left to right) – Luc Richard Mbah a Moute has played for the Milwaukee Bucks the last three seasons. He averaged 6.7 ppg and 5.3 rpg in 2010-11. Jason Kapono helped lead the Miami Heat to the NBA Championship in 2005-06 and spent the 2010-11 season playing for the Philadelphia 76ers with former UCLA guard Jrue Holiday. Tyus Edney led UCLA to the 1995 NCAA Championship before spending the next four seasons playing in the NBA. Reggie Miller is among UCLA's most decorated NBA stars, having enjoyed an 18-year NBA career. He was selected to five NBA All-Star Games after playing for the Bruins from 1984-87.

NBA ALL-STAR GAME

UCLA has sent 16 players to the NBA who have played in the annual All-Star Game. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar earned 19 selections, the most by any player in league history. Gail Goodrich, Marques Johnson and Reggie Miller each made five trips to the All-Star Game.

Kevin Love (left) played in the 2007 McDonald's All-American Game before starring in 2007-08 as a freshman at UCLA. Junior Malcolm Lee (second from left) was a 2008 selection and played for three seasons in Westwood (2008-10). Freshman Joshua Smith (second from right) was a 2010 McDonald's All-American and enters his sophomore season for the Bruins this year. Dan Gadzuric (right) competed in the 1998 McDonald's All-American Game.

Cedric Bozeman competed in the 2001 McDonald's All-American Game before enjoying a productive four-year career at UCLA. In 106 collegiate games, Bozeman totaled 700 points, 386 assists and 334 rebounds.

In three seasons at UCLA, Arron Afflalo (second from left) led the Bruins to three NCAA Tournament appearances, including back-to-back Final Fours as a sophomore and junior. Jrue Holiday (second from right) was selected a McDonald's All-American in 2008 after playing at UCLA during the 2008-09 season.

Jordan Farmar (right), a standout guard at UCLA, played in the 2004 McDonald's All-America Game with classmate Arron Afflalo. Farmar was chosen by the Los Angeles Lakers in the 2006 NBA Draft.

ATHLETIC FACILITIES

Home to legendary Pauley Pavilion, UCLA's campus also features state-of-the-art recreational and practice facilities, training rooms and athletic venues.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE CENTER

UCLA's Athletic Performance Center features 27 weight-lifting platforms, 30 upper and lower body weight machines and a variety of cardiovascular equipment in the Acosta Athletic Training Complex.

Athletic Performance Center

UCLA's new Athletic Performance Center, located in the Acosta Athletic Training Complex, has doubled in size to 15,000 square feet and is directed by athletic performance coach Mike Linn, who enters the second year of his second tenure in this position. Linn, who has both collegiate and corporate experience, previously served as the Bruins' athletic performance coach from 1999-2002. Linn, a 1993 UCLA graduate, oversees the athletic development of more than 700 student-athletes. Brett Tanaka, who serves as an assistant athletic performance coach, works directly with the men's basketball team.

An athlete's development requires a comprehensive plan that maximizes all physical components of competition. UCLA's Athletic Performance Center and the program developed by the staff are instrumental in equipping all UCLA athletes with the physical tools required to successfully compete in the national spotlight. Each athlete receives individual attention from the staff in developing all facets of athleticism, such as strength, force production and power.

The Athletic Performance Center is composed of 27 weight-lifting platforms, a state of the art dumbbell area, 30 upper and lower body weight machines and a variety of cardiovascular equipment. The room is highlighted by the Athletic Performance Area, a specialized space dedicated to enhancing acceleration/deceleration capabilities, foot speed, balance and coordination, vertical jump and flexibility for all Bruin athletes.

TRAINING FACILITIES

UCLA's student-athletes conduct their training and conditioning activities in the three-story Acosta Athletic Training Complex, home for UCLA sports medicine, athletic training and rehabilitation, athletic performance and varsity locker rooms.

Acosta Athletic Training Complex

This state-of-the-art facility provides UCLA student-athletes and coaches all the advantages needed to maximize athletic performance. Among the key features include a 15,000 square-foot weight room, with the most modern equipment for use by all sports in the program. The training complex is a three-story building that also features a "Bod Pod", used to accurately measure one's body fat and an 8,000 square-foot athletic training and rehabilitation facility with private offices and doctor's suites.

UCLA Sports Medicine

UCLA has always been at the forefront in the area of sports medicine and athletic training. The Acosta Athletic Training Complex provides greater advances in sports medicine to benefit UCLA's student-athletes, including state-of-the-art hydro-therapy pools. Dale Rudd heads the UCLA sports medicine staff and works closely with head team physician Gerald Finerman, associated team physician John DiFiori and men's basketball athletic trainer Laef Morris.

Among the key components of UCLA's Acosta Athletic Training Complex includes an 8,000 square foot athletic training and rehabilitation facility with private offices and doctor's suites. The center also has a meeting room with space for 25 people. The second floor features new locker rooms for men's and women's sports and houses a team meeting room and an athlete lounge. Included are three hydro pools, expanded rehab and examination areas and an interfacing with the award-winning "Best in the West" UCLA Ronald Reagan Medical Center.

UCLA's sports medicine staff works closely with the athletic performance staff to maintain a holistic approach to athletic performance. Among the key components include Olympic lifting, functional training, dynamic flexibility, sports nutrition, injury prevention, sport specific conditioning, metabolic assessment testing, a Bod Pod that is accurate for body fat testing and a specialized turf area dedicated to enhancing sports specific movements such as acceleration/deceleration capabilities, foot speed, balance and coordination, vertical jump and flexibility.

STUDENT LIFE

UCLA offers a broad range of recreational activities and co-curricular opportunities for students. With the campus in its gorgeous Westwood location, UCLA provides 13 residential buildings, a multitude of fine dining options and recreational amenities.

UCLA's campus, set in a picturesque setting adjacent to Bel Air and Beverly Hills, features many co-curricular and academic opportunities for students. "Bruin Walk" (bottom right) provides a landscaped pathway through UCLA's campus, connecting the residential areas with recreational and academic buildings. UCLA residential buildings range from suite desings to hall arrangements. Dining services provide students an array of dining options in four residential cafeterias. Sport and fitness opportunities are available at the John Wooden Center and the Sunset Canyon Recreation Center (right, third from top).

WESTWOOD

One of California's most beautiful residential areas, Westwood is the home to UCLA's campus. Activity surrounds UCLA, as Westwood Village (just south of campus) offers a wide variety of restaurants, shops and movie theaters.

The Fox Village Theatre and Geffen Playhouse are located in Westwood Village. Aside from its movie theaters and entertainment centers, Westwood also provides students with a variety of restaurants. "The Village" features popular dining options such as California Pizza Kitchen and Chipotle, and student favorites In-N-Out Burger and Diddy Riese Cookies.

Dining options in Westwood such as Baja Fresh, Noah's New York Bagels, Subway and Jamba Juice are all within walking distance from UCLA's campus. Popular coffee destinations include Starbucks Coffee (pictured, right) and the Coffee Bean & Tea Leaf. Westwood also makes itself home to numerous stores, including Best Buy, Office Depot, Urban Outfitters, Ralph's and Whole Foods Market.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA LOS ANGELES

The city of Los Angeles gains international recognition as America's leader in the entertainment and communications industries. With numerous scenic sports and famed tourist destinations, Los Angeles has much to offer its residents and visitors.

Los Angeles' unparalleled entertainment venues include Universal Citywalk (above, bottom left) and adjacent Universal Studios, as both sites are located 20 minutes from UCLA. Students are also within driving distance to theme parks such as Disneyland and Six Flags Magic Mountain. Less than five miles away from campus is Santa Monica's Third Street Promenade (above, left)

Staples Center has been home to the NBA's Lakers and Clippers since the 1999-2000 season, as well as the NHL's Kings and WNBA's Sparks. The venue also hosts sold-out concerts and similar entertainment events.

The Los Angeles area features numerous beaches with fantastic views of the Pacific Ocean. Venice Beach, Santa Monica and Malibu are all a short drive from UCLA's campus in Westwood. UCLA lies about five miles east of the ocean.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have called Dodger Stadium (above) their home since 1962, five seasons after moving to Los Angeles from Brooklyn. The historic ballpark served as host to the 1984 Olympic baseball games and the 2010 World Baseball Classic.
