Since being named head coach of the Bruins on May 3, 1993, Kathy Olivier has energized the UCLA program. The former standout player at Cal State Fullerton and UNLV has helped to produce two Pac-10 Players of the Year, three Pac-10 Freshmen of the Year, a Pac-10 team championship and a Pac-10 Tournament Championship. She is the only current Pac-10 coach to have as many as three freshmen named first-team All-Conference performers. From 1998-2000, she guided UCLA to a school-best three-straight NCAA tournament appearances and had the Bruins in the NCAA tournament again in 2006.

Interest in UCLA women's basketball has taken off to new levels under Olivier. The only regular season crowds in Bruin history of over 7,000 fans have come out to support the Bruins during her tenure. In fact, the top 13 regular season crowds in school history have come with Olivier at the helm.

Recognized as an excellent recruiter, she has steadily built the program to reflect her own positive, upbeat and outgoing personality. In her 13 seasons as UCLA head coach, Olivier has posted a 202-175 overall mark, which includes six top-four Pac-10 finishes in the last nine seasons. Her teams may favor a running game on offense, but defense is another Olivier strong point. Six of the all-time school top 10 marks for lowest opponent field percentages belong to Olivier-coached squads.

Olivier's 2006 squad finished the season strong, placing third in the Pac-10 regular standings and then winning the Conference Tournament for the first time with wins on consecutive days over California, Arizona State and Stanford. The Arizona State victory gave Olivier her 200th career win. The Bruins advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament and finished with a 21-11 record. Olivier coached three AP and WBCA/Kodak honorable mention All-Americans in Nikki Blue, Noelle Quinn and Lisa Willis. The trio also earned first-team All-Pac-10 honors, Quinn and Willis' second and Blue's fourth, which made her just fifth four-time first-team All-Pac-10 selection in conference history. Blue became the first Bruin player to lead the Pac-10 in assists, while Willis, the Pac-10 Tournament MVP, led the league in steals for the third straight season. Quinn ranked third in the Pac-10 in scoring and second in rebounding. UCLA's 10-2 record in Pauley Pavilion (.833) was the highest home court winning percentage posted by a Bruin team since the 1980-81 squad went 15-2 (.882).

In 2005, Blue garnered her third straight first-team All-Pac-10 honors and Willis earned first-team recognition for the initial time. The Bruins lost leading scorer and rebounder (at the time) Quinn to a knee injury midway through the season and finished sixth in the Pac-10 after posting non-conference wins over then-No. 4 ranked Texas and then-No. 14 Purdue. Quinn earned honorable mention all-conference honors, and Lindsey Pluimer was named to the all-conference freshman team. The team set a school record for free throw shooting percentage (.717) and allowed opponents the fourth-lowest shooting percentage in school history (.400).

In 2004, Olivier's Bruins earned a NCAA Tournament berth and finished with a 17-13 overall record and a third-place Pac-10 finish. The team boasted the Pac-10 Freshman of the Year, Quinn, and a pair of All-Conference performers in Quinn and Blue. A third player, Willis, earned honorable mention all-conference accolades after leading the league in steals and made three-point shots. The Bruin team surrendered just 63.8 points per game, the third-lowest opponent scoring mark ever. The team also played its final home game of the season, a win over USC, before 8,094 fans, the third-largest crowd in school history.

Olivier led the 2003 Bruins to 12 conference victories, a total surpassed by only two other seasons in UCLA history. The 12 wins included five on the road, a total bettered by only one other school that season. Her team set a school record for free throw shooting (.716), and Blue became just the seventh freshman player in conference history to be named to the first-team All-Pac-10 team. Michelle Greco joined Natalie Williams and Rehema Stephens as Bruins who have led the Pac-10 in scoring in multiple seasons.

In 2002, Olivier guided a team which lost its two leading scorers during the season to the quarterfinal round of the Pac-10 tournament. The team finished with the sixth-best defensive shooting percentage in school history at .413. In 2001, Olivier guided a team which was playing without eight of its top nine scorers from the previous season to a winning record at home in Pac-10 play and to wins over two nationally-ranked opponents. Greco became the fourth Bruin to lead the Pac-10 in scoring and was named first-team all-conference.

Olivier's 2000 squad earned a NCAA Tournament berth for the third straight year and set a school attendance mark for the home season with an average of over 3,700 fans. The team battled injuries all season and a schedule which saw them tangle with three of the eventual Final Four teams and two others which advanced to the Elite 8. Maylana Martin became the second-leading scorer in Bruin women's basketball history during the year, and Janae Hubbard and Marie Philman each became members of the UCLA 1,000-point club. Martin also became just the third player in Pac-10 history ever to be named to the all-conference team for four-straight seasons.

In 1999, Olivier guided her team to the school's first-ever Pac-10 Conference championship and a best-ever Elite Eight finish in the NCAA tournament. A 26-8 record marked UCLA's first back-to-back 20-win seasons since a three-peat in the 1977-79 campaigns. The 26 wins were the most by a Bruin team since the 1981 squad went 29-7 and the third-highest in school annals. The team set a school and conference record for shooting percentage in a game (.695) and went on to shoot .476 for the season, the best mark since 1984. The final ranking of No. 7 in the nation was the highest ever for a UCLA team in the USA Today coaches poll and the best finish in any poll since a similar ranking in the Associated Press poll in 1981. Olivier created such a positive energy around her team that an all-time school record crowd of 9,530 was on hand to witness a 94-53 home win over USC.

In 1998, she directed a Bruin team which featured two Pac-10 Freshmen of the Year to the school's best-ever conference finish at the time (second, 14-4) and the best winning percentage (20-9, .690) in 17 seasons. It was the first 20-win season for a Bruin team since its last NCAA team won 21 in 1992. The season also marked the first time a Bruin team had been ranked in the regular season Associated Press poll for more than a week's time since 1982-83.

Martin, the Pac-10 Freshman of the Year in 1997 and the Pac-10 Player of the Year in 1999, became just the third Bruin to score a total of over 1,000 career points after just two years. LaCresha Flannigan, 1996 Pac-10 Freshman of the Year Erica Gomez and Martin each earned first-team all-conference honors in 1999.

In addition to these fine players, as an assistant coach, Olivier had been instrumental in landing All-Everything two-sport standout Natalie Williams, recognized as the Pac-10's Athlete of the Decade in a 1996 vote of conference officials. Williams also brought home a gold medal as a member of the winning USA Women's Basketball team in 2000 in Sydney, Australia.

The dynamic Bruin coach originally joined the UCLA staff in the summer of 1986. In her seven seasons as an assistant, the team enjoyed five winning years and reached the NCAA Tournament in two of the final four years. In 1991-92, the Bruins compiled a record of 21-10 and advanced to the NCAA Sweet 16.

Olivier began her coaching career at her alma mater, UNLV, as a graduate assistant in 1981-82. Following one season at UC Irvine (1982-83), she was hired at USC and was on the Trojan staff for three years (1983-84 through 1985-86) as an assistant. USC, led by sophomore Cheryl Miller, won the NCAA title in Olivier's first year (1984) and reached the championship game in her third season (1986).

The former Kathy Ricks, Olivier was a standout player at Cal State Fullerton and then at UNLV. As a freshman (1977-78) at Fullerton, she averaged 15.6 points and 9.2 rebounds her first season and raised her scoring average to 19.3 as a sophomore. As a junior (1979-80) at UNLV, she earned All-America honors while averaging a team-high 16.3 points and 5.7 rebounds. In her final year (1980-81), she led the Rebels in scoring (20.2) and ranked second in rebounding (9.2). Olivier played high school basketball at Valencia HS in Placentia, CA.

Olivier comes from an accomplished athletic family. Her sister Mary Ricks played on UCLA's national championship softball teams in 1984 and 1985, and her brother Tom Ricks played on USC's baseball team from 1975-77. Olivier's daughter, Alexis, joins the Bruin team this season after playing on the Los Alamitos HS team.

Martin, a four-year first-team all-conference performer at UCLA from 1997-2000, helped to lead the Bruins to three straight NCAA tournament appearances (1998, '99, '00). Her 1998-99 team advanced to the Elite Eight. Martin was voted the Pac-10 Player of the Year after leading the Bruins to the 1999 conference co-championship. She was named the 1997 Freshman of the Year and went on to become one of just four players to be selected all-conference for four straight seasons. She earned first-team Kodak All-America honors in 1999 and was a second-team AP All-American.

Martin ranks second on the UCLA all-time scoring list. She finished her Bruin career ranked fourth on the all-time school list for blocks, field goal percentage and rebounds. She is one of only two Bruin women (also Denise Curry) to record over 2,000 points (2,101) for her career. Martin ended her career ranked sixth on the all-time conference list in scoring and eighth in rebounding.

The 10th selection in the first round of the 2000 WNBA draft by Minnesota, she went on to play two seasons with the Lynx and also played with the Charlotte Sting. She left professional basketball to begin her collegiate coaching career at Portland in the summer of 2003.
